

BIOGRAPHY

Laura Shields is a policy associate in NCSL's Environment, Energy and Transportation Program. In this capacity, she analyzes regulatory and legislative trends related to energy efficiency, renewable energy, and greenhouse gas emissions. Laura received her Juris Doctor degree from the University of Colorado, where she earned certificates in energy, environmental, and natural resources law and policy and in American Indian law. Prior to joining NCSL, she worked as an attorney for the Environmental Defense Fund where she focused on transportation sector Clean Air Act issues at the federal and state level.

Laura Shields

Policy Associate, NCSL Energy,
Environment & Transportation
Program