

Fred McBride

Redistricting and Voting Rights Policy
Specialist, Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law

BIOGRAPHY

Fred McBride has been involved in voting rights for approximately 20 years. The focus of his work is mainly quantitative and qualitative research in redistricting and voting rights law. Fred served as the redistricting coordinator/research analyst for the Voting Rights Project of the American Civil Liberties Union for over 12 years and has served as senior staff member for various voting rights organizations. He analyzed and drew redistricting plans for elected officials, civic groups, organizations, and citizens, and evaluated election returns by performing statistical analyses to determine voting behavior patterns. Prior to joining the Lawyer's Committee, Fred taught political science at Georgia State University's Perimeter College. He has a Ph.D. in political science from Clark Atlanta University with undergraduate and graduate political science and public administration degrees from Louisiana State University and Southern University.
